Dear Mr Stamp,

Please stop sending me these documents. This stuff might impress your clients/victims, but I think you know it's all meaningless nonsense.

This letter aside, I won't be responding - I'm posting the documents online and then binning them. If you want a reply then please write to me in plain English. An email is preferable – dan@taxpolicy.org.uk.

If, however, you cannot resist continuing to post me gibberish, then please stop sending it to [REDACTED]. This ceased to be our registered office nine months ago; it's now an apartment where the owner/resident has no connection to me. I'm happy to ignore your threats, because I know it's all claptrap. Other people may not be.
